Information you provide

When you become a member, you are generally asked to provide us with your name and contact details as well as other information. Under the Privacy Amendment (Private Sector) Act 2000, information which can identify you, is known as personal information.

How we use information

TasCOSS uses the information you give to us for the purposes of communicating information about the work of TasCOSS and of other related organisations in the non-government community services sector. TasCOSS is part of the national network of Councils of Social Service. From time to time, TasCOSS works in partnership with our national body, ACOSS, in distributing information we believe will be of interest to members. This means that you may receive information direct from ACOSS based on the COSS protocols for sharing member contact details. Apart from this arrangement with ACOSS, your personal information will not be disclosed to third parties without your consent or unless required by law.

We may use the information for internal reviews and analysis and may also use it to produce certain consolidated statistics about our services. However, we will not disclose your individual information nor sell, trade or rent that information.

If we need to disclose any information to conform with any laws or legal process we will undertake to inform you of the nature of the information which has been disclosed and to whom it has been disclosed (unless informing you is precluded by legislation), so that you can take necessary action.
